Arnold Bloch Leibler partner honoured at LIV Legal Awards

13 December 2006

Arnold Bloch Leibler partner and head of the firm's property & development practice, Ken Gray, has been recognised at the 2006 Law Institute of Victoria (LIV) Legal Awards held on 10 November.

The awards recognise Victoria's top lawyers for their outstanding contributions to the law and community in 2006.

Ken was recognised for his commitment to specialisation and understanding of its value. He served on the LIV Specialisation Board for six years before moving on to the Property Law Advisory Committee where he has served for the past six years.

In an article in the Law Institute Journal, LIV President Cathy Gale said the awards inspired others to pursue excellence in legal practice.

"We are very privileged in Victoria to have many outstanding solicitors who strive to improve the law, to assist individuals and minority groups, and to make a real difference in the communities they serve," she said.

Ken specialises in commercial property development transactions and has represented private, corporate and institutional clients in a broad range of property related issues.

Ken is also a member of the Property Law Group of the Law Council of Australia.
